THE TERRITORIES.

An Idaho judge gives it as his opinion "that more brains are required to play poker than to run a court."

The indebtedness of Thurston county, W. T., is being reduced very rapidly, and now only amounts to $4,266 79.

Al. Pettygrove, of the Port Townsend Argus, announces his paper and printing material for sale, and wants a customer to hurry along.

Denver is to have a new hotel, and the public are assured that the walls will be bullet proof, so that guests won't run any risk on account of an affair in the other room.

Lewis, Cowlitz and Thurston counties, W. T., which contain the entire length of completed road belonging to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company in the Territory, from Kalama to Tenino, have assessed the track at $3,000 per mile, each county alike.

Gen. Sprague, of Kalama, has subscribed $200 toward building a bridge at Claquato, across the Chehalis river, on the old stage road. He has also given $250 to assist in opening a road from Newaukum due east, across the Newaukum valley and river, to the old Cowlitz telegraph road, a distance of one mile.

Helena has been tendered a city charter by the legislature of Montana, but the question of adoption is to be submitted to the people interested, and if they accept, it goes into effect, otherwise not. The Helenians will probably reject the privilege of municipal sovereignty and oppressive taxation—the inevitable burdens of miniature cities.

The Olympia Tribune of the 7th learns from Capt. Starr, of the North Pacific, that some unknown vessel was reported in Victoria to be waterlogged down the Straits. Particulars were very meager when the steamer left. Parties in Victoria were endeavoring to charter the steamer Isabel to go to the assistance of the waterlogged vessel.

The Olympia Tribune tells of one less "terminus" on the Sound: "On petition of Mr. G. A. Barnes of Olympia, the county commissioners have vacated Puget City, better known as Nisqually, Hog'em or the Indian graveyard. Mr. W. S. Ladd, of Portland, was also gratified by having his Central Addition to Puget City vacated. Puget City is no more. Its prospects during the Holladay railroad excitement were bright and glorious, but now it has ceased to exist, has not even a name and cannot be found on town plat, county map or even on the site of its geographical location. Farewell Hog'em."

The Alleged Corruption of the Vienna Commissioners.

A Washington dispatch to the Times, dated April 23d, has the following in relation to the charges of fraud and corruption made against some of the United States Commissioners to the Vienna Exposition:

> It appears upon careful inquiry that there is as yet no evidence to sustain the allegations that commissionerships to Vienna have been purchased by those who received them. Thirteen Assistant Commissioners were appointed on the recommendation of Commissioner Van Buren, and there is no charge of purchasing these appointments that can lie against any one unless it be Gen. Van Buren himself, or some one who had influence enough with him to secure one of these appointments for a friend who was willing to pay for it. The investigation ordered, however, will go into the whole affair, for the purpose of disclosing all the influences which controlled the official positions and privileges which were at the disposal of the Commissioner General. It is thus far established that the restaurant privileges were purchased. The modus operandi of obtaining them in the regular manner would be this: The Austrian Government entered into contracts with different parties for the right to keep a restaurant in the division of each nationality; this contract then needed the confirmation of the Commissioner General of the nationality in which the restaurant was to be established. It seems that a party of New York gentlemen obtained the Austrian concession, and finally had their contract confirmed by Gen. Van Buren, supposing that they obtained thereby the exclusive right for this purpose. But on arriving at Vienna they soon ascertained that two other parties had obtained the same exclusive right from the American Department. A quarrel ensued, when the unpleasant fact came out that each party had paid money to secure the privilege from the American Commissioner General. The evidence was sufficient to suspend one of the assistants forthwith, and if the charges are sustained by the examination now going on, he will be removed and disgraced. All the Assistant Commissioners are now in Europe, or on the way over, save one. There is no evidence, save loose allegations, that any of the honorary commissionerships were obtained through any improper influence. If any were so obtained, or are being used for any private purpose or enterprise, that fact need only be established to promptly secure the removal of such Commissioner, and publication of the cause.

The sprightly Dublin correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune concludes a most interesting letter on the social condition of Ireland, as follows:

> The Irish people were once in the habit of taking things easy. They did so when the population was 7,000,000. Then they had the potato as the Hindoos have their rice. Now they find themselves terribly changed. With them, in a sense, their fathers never knew 'life is real, life is earnest.' They must work, and economize, and manage, and save, or they cannot live. The most energetic and ambitious of the young men and women emigrate. Those who remain grow sad and selfish. Children who should be at school are obliged to toil for their food. They grow prematurely aged, hardened and impudently independent. The commercial principle is the mighty solvent of all hereditary and family and local attachments. Nothing is of value that cannot be turned into money to satisfy the imperative demands of civilized life. Self-interest has thrown off all its pleasant disguises. Faces once radiant with smiles have contracted their brows and compressed their lips, in the throes of the mental arithmetic by which they are striving to make the two ends of the week meet.

A Washington dispatch of the 25th inst gives the following hint at the probable workings of the law repealing the franking privilege:

> Active preparations are making in all the departments to meet the requirements of the law abolishing the franking privilege. The Treasury Department has the most difficult task, since it furnishes so many classes of blanks to all the branches of the revenue service. A question has arisen upon sending these blanks in closed packages, which is necessary, and the Postoffice Department has agreed that packages of printed blanks may be sealed, provided their character is properly certified to by the office sending them. The Treasury will conduct a large part of its business with the principal Custom Houses by express, as the transportation of its blanks and books will be very much less by express than at the lowest mail rates. Even the Postoffice Department itself can send its stamps, envelopes, paper and twine to the large offices cheaper by express than at its own rates.

We clip the following from a late Washington correspondence of the N. Y. Times:

> Official returns made to the Bureau of Statistics show that forty-three vessels, of an aggregate tonnage of 16,000, belonging to the port of Boston, were lost during the quarter ending March 31, 1873. Among the vessels lost were seven barks of 300 tons each, and ten brigs and ten schooners of 100 tons, each. The loss of such a large number of vessels belonging to a single port and in such a brief period is unprecedented.

OREGON.

The Coxon trial cost Yamhill $2,000.

The Harrisburg flouring mill is crowded with custom work.

The Lebanon mills are becoming noted for the good quality of their flour.

For local items Albany is at present a Saharian Desert without an oasis in sight.

The past two weeks of pleasant weather has enabled the farmers to about complete their seeding.

The County Court of Marion county has provided for two or three new bridges on Pudding river.

Grand Master T. [illegible] atton visited the Masonic Lodges of Brow[illegible]e and Lebanon during the past week.

Lee Burkhart has on his farm, a half mile east of Albany, 70 acres of wheat which is waist high to an ordinary man.

The Brownsville Woolen Factory will be in operation as soon as the wool clip is in—probably about the 1st of next month.

Lebanon has four stores and the neatest little church we have seen in Oregon. It belongs to the Cumberland Presbyterians.

W. A. Wheeler, one of the proprietors of the Forest Grove Independent, has disposed of his interest in it to Frank F. Myers, his partner.

The value of real estate inside of the corporation of Forest Grove is $62,875; the value of personal property is $61,068; total $123,943.

The Lafayette Courier is quite severe in its denunciation of the verdict of the jury in the Coxon case. "What are you going to do about it?"

Rev. C. W. Shaw delivered his farewell sermon at the M. E. Church on Sunday evening. The pulpit will be filled by Rev. Mr. Macey, of Salem.

The Albany Register says: "Our mills having almost ceased to run, owing to the light demand for flour, consequently bran and shorts are exceedingly hard to get."

A Linn county man has invented a double-geared, self-adjusting, back action clod smasher, which only has to be run through a field and the clods are left as fine as powder.

The Railroad, and O. S. N. Co. will carry Delegates to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows at half the usual fare, or rather full fare will be charged going and delegates returned free.

Mr. Ye Hung was married to Miss En Koi, at Jacksonville last week. They went on their wedding tour to an adjacent Chinese wash-house and are now in the midst of their celestial honeymoon.

The delegates to the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, to be held at the Dalles, Tuesday, May 20th, elected by Occidental Lodge No. 30, McMinnville, are H. V. V. Johnson and Samuel Shaffer.

Brown, of the Albany Democrat, gets off the following on the legal fraternity: "The inhabitants of Tilamook county may as well take in their grindstones—as about 100 lawyers are going over there in July to attend their maiden Circuit Court."

Two wolves killed ten sheep for Mr. Walker, of Yamhill, the other day. They ate part of each carcass and buried the rest for future use. Mr. Walker found the buried carcasses, and salted them with strychnine and the wolves only took one meal more off those sheep.

Forest Grove Lodge, No. 136, I. O. G. T., elected last Saturday night, as Representatives to the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., which meets at Albany, Tuesday, June 10, 1873, as Regular Representatives, Mrs. M. F. Hoxter, and as alternates, Mrs. C. A. Coburn and C. H. Walker.

Lafayette Lodge, I. O. G. T., installed on Wednesday night last, for the ensuing term, W. C. T., J. H. Upton; W. V. T., Miss Nancy Martin; W. R. S., James McCain; W. F. S., Judge Ramsey; W. T., Mrs. Z. Large; W. Chaplain, W. F. Royal; W. M., James Martin; W. I. G., Miss Susan Bradshaw.

At Harrisburg, a few days since, Willie Briggs, son of W. W. Briggs, miller in Smith, Gerst & Co.'s mill, while ascending a ladder in the granary, was suddenly taken with cramp in the arms, and fell to the floor, a distance of twenty-two feet, breaking no bones but bruising his body considerably, causing partial paralysis.

Three men have been prospecting for gold on the beach near Cape Disappointment. What has been found was so fine and in such small quantities as to be insufficient to pay for working. They will proceed further north in their search for filthy lucre. We are so informed by a gentleman recently returned from that locality.

The Enterprise says: "We are informed that within the past two weeks six claims have been taken up in the Eagle Creek portion of Clackamas county, and that two or three more families are expected this week. They are heartily welcomed by their neighbors, and will soon find themselves perfectly at home. There is plenty more room for industrious people in the same locality.

The following officers of Hillsboro Lodge, No. 17, I. O. G. T., were installed last Saturday night: H. B. Morgan, W. C. T.; Miss Mary Brown, W. V. T.; Jacob Gibson, W. S.; T. D. Humphreys, W. A. S.; Green Hale, W. F. S.; Miss Mary Gault, W. T.; R. D. Malone, W. M.; Miss Kate Gibson, W. D. M.; C. T. Tozier, W. C.; Miss Mary A. Humphreys, W. I. G.; Wm. Rercy, W. O. G.

The following are the officers elected for the ensuing quarter beginning May 1st, at the last meeting of Willamette Lodge, No. 15, I. O. G. T., Oregon City, who will be installed next Saturday evening: J. W. Blackwell, W. C. T.; Mrs. C. M. Kester, W. V. T.; E. L. Eastham, Sec.; T. J. Spooner, W. F. S.; Rev. J. D. Locey, W. T.; Mr. Watson, W. M.; Fred. Hurst, W. O. G., Miss Eliza Eudy, W. I. G.; Rev. J. D. Locey, W. C.; Rodney Thompkins, P. W. C. T.

The McMinnville Reporter has an article on "How to catch mules," to which the editor of the Albany Democrat says: "We don't want any information on that obsolete subject. We caught a mule once, and that's the reason our spinal column is so short and one shoulder higher than the other and our nose turned nearly crosswise on our face, etc. Our first experimental knowledge of the ravishing delights of profanity dates from the catching of that mule. No, thank you, Soyd. we have no mule at large!"

The Yambill Reporter says: "Mr. John Baker, who lives one mile from this place, on Saturday had on the streets two sheep, which were the admiration of those who saw them. One, a Cotswold, imported, was three years old, and weighed 293½ pounds. The other, two years old, raised by Mr. Baker, weighed 227 pounds. Specimens of wool from these sheep measured over a foot in length, and was very pretty. It seems to us that these are very large animals of the kind. It may be that there are larger ones. If so let us hear from them."

The Legislature of New York has passed a resolution of thanks to Charles Francis Adams, for his eloquent memorial oration on the life and character of William H. Seward.

By Overland Telegraph.

EASTERN DATES TO MAY 9.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Tribute of Respect to the Illustrious Dead.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Secretary Richardson will tomorrow issue an order paying a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Chief Justice, in which he will allude to the past services of the deceased as head of the Treasury Department. Secretary Richardson will also direct the Department to be closed till Saturday next, and the building to be draped in mourning for thirty days.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Secretary Robeson has directed that the War and Navy Departments be closed to-morrow out of respect to the memory of Chief Justice Chase. General Sherman leaves to-day to attend the funeral. On account of the absence of the Secretary of War and Gen. Sherman, Robeson will be unable to attend.

Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Commissioners of Indian Affairs have received a copy of a protest from Pesquiera, Governor of Sonora, Mexico, to Governor Safford, of Arizona, against what he supposes to be the stipulations of a treaty between Gen. Howard and the Indian Chief Cachise. Governor Pesquiera furnishes a list of murders and less crimes committed by the chief between November and March, and claims that the treaty allows Cachise to have free range in Mexico. Commissioner Smith says this is entirely a mistake, as the treaty in no way refers to Sonora or any other Mexican territory.

Other Conscience-Stricken M. C's.

John B. Haylor, of Illinois, and J. M. Rust, of Wisconsin, returned the back pay into the Treasury. This statement is made at the request of friends of these gentlemen.

Louisiana Affairs.

WASHINGTON, May, 9.—Marshal Packard telegraphed from New Orleans to Attorney General Williams that having warrants for the arrest of De Blanc and others of the insurrectionary organization, he called upon Gen. Emery, who furnished a military force of two officers and forty men to make the arrests. This force arrived at Brashear City by rail, but did not proceed at once to St. Martinsville for want of transportation by water. Their arrival there he believes will end the contest.

Reinforcements for the Kelloggites.

FRANKLIN, La., May 9.—Forty-three mounted Metropolitans, commanded by Mike Cooney, passed here at 9 o'clock this morning, unmolested. There is nothing now to prevent their forming a junction with those at St. Martinsville.

Land Decision.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Secretary of the Interior to-day decided that lands between Sacramento and San Francisco on the circuitous railroad line by way of San Jose, which were withdrawn January 30th, 1865, for the Central Pacific Railroad Co., do not inure to the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., of California, under the joint resolution of June 28, 1870, but must be considered part of the public domain. The Secretary therefore directs the Commissioner of the General Land Office to restore these lands to the market. They comprise twenty thousand acres.

Miscellaneous.

There are several regiments of infantry and a regiment of cavalry in such proximity to New Orleans that should more troops be needed than Gen. Emery has conveniently located their services could be had in a few hours.

EASTERN STATES.

Resolutions by the New York Board of Aldermen.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The Board of Aldermen this afternoon, adopted appropriate resolutions on the death of Chief Justice Chase.

The Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting to-morrow to take action.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 10, 1873.

An Interesting and Important Decision.

The Court of Appeals of Kentucky, has just rendered a decision which is quite important in itself, and will be read with interest by members of the legal profession, as the point of law involved is peculiar. The case is that of the Covington and Lexington Railroad Company vs. The Administrators and Heirs of R. B. Bowler and others, who, since 1859, have held the road by virtue of purchase at sales decreed by the Fayette Circuit Court, to satisfy the trustee of the second mortgage bonds.

The decision of the Court is, that the heirs of Bowler do not hold the road in their own right, but as trustees of the railroad company, and that commissioners appointed by the proper court, shall adjust the claims between Bowler's heirs and the company from the date of the transfer in 1859 to the date of the restoration of the road to the Covington and Lexington Company. The decision of the court was unanimous.

The arguments of the plaintiff's counsel were that Bowler, at the time of the purchase, was occupying a position of trust to the company. Whether acting in good or bad faith, he could hold the road only in the capacity of trustee to the company. The court holds that by accounting to the Bowler heirs and other defendants for their expenses, in satisfaction of the judgment of the Fayette Court, of repairs and improvements on the road, the company are entitled to a share of the profits realized from the road while out of their hand, and to resume control of it upon complying with the terms of the Fayette Court judgment.

Thus after fourteen years of exclusive possession and supposed ownership of the railway, the defendants are required to surrender it up, on being reimbursed their legitimate expenditures upon it.

A Huge Project Revived.

The proposition that all the railways in England be purchased by the government, which was rejected in 1867, is again being agitated. The subject underwent such a thorough and exhaustive discussion when it was under consideration, by a royal commission, both through the Press and by experienced railway men, that it is scarcely likely anything new will be urged now, one way or the other. The agitation at the present time, with apparently greater prospect of the consummation of the project than ever before, may be reasonably taken as an indication that the growth of business and the increasing wants of the times, have convinced many persons that the former decision was an unfortunate one, and that the interests of the people demand that the lines of transportation be controlled by the State.

The railway system of the Island has greatly extended during the time that has elapsed since the proposition of 1867, and the cost of purchasing the roads now would be very considerably greater than it would have been then; but it is said the business of the roads has increased in a ratio exceeding that of the probable cost, and that as an investment, the purchase would have more to recommend it now than then. The estimates of the amount of money required to make such a purchase, vary between $2,500,000,000 and $4,000,000,000. It is probable therefore, that should the project be carried through, the indebtedness of the government would be doubled; and yet Mr. Gladstone is reported as saying, that if the national debt is ever to be paid off, it will be as the result of the government's purchasing the entire railway system of the country.

Note how great a matter a small animal dog kindle! There is a dog beast in New York city, who is dependent upon the bounty of one Ellis H. Elias for support in his struggle for existence. This canine dog slept in his master's apartment at the Grand Central Hotel. When Ellis H. wanted to pay his hotel bill, the landlord presented an item for $50 for damages to a carpet, alleged to have been wrought through the indecent conduct of Elias' devoted dog animal. E. surveyed the bill calmly, elevated his nostrils, placed his sinister thumb in intimate juxtaposition to the extended phalanges of his dexter hand, and by various cunning wigglings of the same, intimated to mine host that sentiment of the gorgeous Snapp, M. C.: "You can't come it that way over a pensive public." Which the name of the lessee of the hotel was Powers, H. L., and he detained the piano of Elias until payment was made. Mr. E. invoked the majesty of a replevin, but the piano had gone—whither, Mr. Powers would not say. And when a minion of the law attempted to arrest recalcitrant P., this bloated piano-holder awed the officer into leaving the premises suddenly. Wherefore the lessee of the Grand Central Hotel gazes on life's mutable affairs from behind the bars of Ludlow street jail. Such is life!

Scene: Spartanburg, S. C. Occasion: Petulant zephyr,—otherwise, cyclone. Dramatis personæ: Local reporter. Loq.: "The cloud in which this frightful wind was imbosomed presented a remarkable and terror inspiring appearance. It was of a reddish and yellowish cast, so commingled as to present a dun leaden color. Solemn was its march—fearful its mien,—terrible its roar—deep its muttering." One would suppose that this inflamed Auster would do some kind of deviltry. Well, it did: "It threw down a double log cabin, with central chimney of brick and rock, and destroyed the crockery and culinary utensils of the gentleman in possession of the premises." The italics are ours. Where, oh! where is the emerald-tinted meteorological operator of Carlin?

A Washington dispatch says that General Garfield has addressed a letter to his constituents, in reply to the resolution of the convention asking him to resign. The letter concludes as follows: "If I ought to resign for casting this vote, every elective officer should resign whenever any of his official acts, done in good faith, are strongly disapproved by those who elected him. If the delegates believe that the retroactive clause is so infamous that I ought to resign for voting for the appropriation bill to which it was attached, will they follow out their logic and insist that the President ought to resign for signing it? My vote did not make it a law; his signature did it. I do not assent to the logic that leads to such a conclusion."

Official returns made to the Bureau of Statistics at Washington, show that 43 vessels of an aggregate tonnage of 16,000, belonging to the port of Boston, were lost during the quarter ending March 1st 1873. The loss of such a large number of vessels belonging to a single port, and in such a brief period, is unprecedented.

Oakes Ames.

They have fallen together—the tempter and the tempted. As if to supplement the death of one whose last days were saddened and embittered by his restless schemings for wealth, Oakes Ames follows James Brooks into the valley and the shadow of death. He died yesterday at his home in North Easton, Massachusetts, in the seventieth year of his age. The event is an ordinary one. It may be said, perhaps, that, beyond the little circle of friends in his native town, few sincere mourners will grieve over the demise of this old man. But the character of him who has passed away is one of unusual interest. A peculiar importance attaches to the latter days of this man's life.

Oakes Ames was born at Easton, Massachusetts, January 10th, 1801. There was nothing in his early life to give promise of a particularly brilliant future. He was known always as a steady, industrious boy, of frugal habits and indomitable will, and withal possessed of much of that peculiar energy which has made the Yankee character famous throughout the world. He received a public school education, and by persistent effort became first manager, then proprietor, of the extensive manufactories which constitute the chief wealth of Easton. Having amassed a large fortune, he turned his attention to the vast scheme of a transcontinental railway,—a project then—1861—in its earliest infancy, and from which less daring capitalists shrank, fearing to risk their private fortunes and their commercial credit in an enterprise of such hazardous magnitude. To the work of building this great national highway, Oakes Ames brought the same strong will that had carried him successfully through smaller ventures. He invested his own private fortune, and induced other prominent capitalists to lend their name. And so, upon the shoulders of this commercial Titan the gigantic enterprise of the Union Pacific Railway was borne to successful completion.

Says Montesquieu, "Happy the people whose annals are vacant." We would that the record of Oakes Ames' life could close with this magnificent achievement. But our most recent national disgrace is fresh in the memory of every thoughtful American. We are content to say the most that can be said that in the cold, calculating character of the speculator and capitalist he sunk the more exalted nature of the scrupulous legislator, forgetting, mayhap, that the honor of man was not a thing of commerce, that the soul of his fellow was something to be valued above the insensate bar of iron which always bounded his horizon.

During his lifetime Mr. Ames held several important positions of public trust. He was elected a member of the Executive Council of Massachusetts in 1860, and again in 1861. With the ending of the Forty-second Congress he closed his fifth term as Congressman from the Second District (Republican) of Massachusetts. Here we take leave of the man, and his eventful life. But there remains behind all this, a moral lesson which it would well become every American to ponder.

John Stuart Mill.

Simultaneously with the death of one of the most eminent of American jurists, comes word of the demise of one of the greatest of English logicians: John Stuart Mill died at Avignon, France, on Thursday last, in the sixty-eighth year of his age.

He was born in 1806. His father, James Mill, an eminent British metaphysician and political economist, supervised his earlier education. It is related of the younger philosopher that his remarkable acumen and strong analytical mind on more than one occasion, rendered him a formidable opponent to his father. An eminent authority has said of him: "So thorough was his culture, that the most elaborated mind of our age, as his has been called, seemed almost mature and complete at its first appearance." At the age of 21, he was selected by the disciples of the Bentham school, to edit the "Rationale of Juridical Evidence" of that philosopher. From 1835 to 1840, he was editor of the London and Westminster Review. His bold, aggressive liberalism here first developed itself,—that trait which, in after years, raised him from the lower plane of the speculative philosopher to the high level of the English Liberals of to-day. As a philosopher, Mr. Mill is most widely and most favorably known by his "System of Logic Ratiocinative and Inductive." In this work Mr. Mill aimed simply at discovering and expounding the proper methods of investigating truth, without pledging himself to any system of speculative philosophy; but still there are so many points of a speculative nature touched upon, that it is customary to regard the author as a partisan of the modern Lockian school of metaphysics or sensationalism—i.e. that which teaches that truth is discoverable by the human faculties, but that it must all ultimately rest upon the experience of the senses as its ultimate foundation. He denies the existence of a priori truths, and supports Brown's theory of causation, which seeks to sink all idea of a real connection between cause and effect. He regards logic as "a method of rules for showing the co-existence and succession of phenomena and thereby discovering laws." (Vol. I. p. 86.) These are some of the distinctive features of Mr. Mill's system. In the realm of politics he was quite as bold in his assaults on the advocates of the "divine right" as he is upon the Idealism of Hobbes. Mr. Mill has for many years been an ardent supporter of the extension of suffrage to the Commons of England. In his "Thoughts on Parliamentary Reform" he first advocated the extension of the electoral suffrage "to all householders without distinction of sex, on proof of their ability to read, write and calculate." He condemned the ballot system for the reason that a universal moral sentiment condemns concealment.

Through all his late public life, Mr. Mill carried with him always the burden of a great grief. He had the misfortune to lose his wife, several years ago. The few sentences in which he dedicates one of his earlier works to her, constitute the most touching testimonial of affection of which we have any remembrance. A great scholar and a noble patriot have passed away.

Some Boston antiquarian has presented to the Berkshire (Mass.) Athenæum a piece of black slate taken from the stone prison in which John Brown was confined in Charlestown, Virginia. They put it alongside a piece of red sandstone from the jail in which Socrates—a Grecian philosopher, now deceased, was imprisoned,—the latter relic being duly authenticated by the oldest inhabitant of Athens.

A correspondent at the National Capital says that sundry and divers postmasters in backwoods townships, whose salaries range from $5 to $10 a year, think that if their compensation was paid yearly instead of quarterly (as now), it might be of some use to them!

Brought to Terms.

It is refreshing to be enabled to note an instance in which a railway company has been held to the same strictness in the performance of its legal obligations, to which private individuals are held. It is so uncommon a thing for these great aggregations of capital, not to be allowed anything they choose to ask, that no one is surprised to hear of their disregarding any obligation, and all are surprised if the statute penalties therefor are enforced. One company, however, has been "brought up with a round turn," and some others, it seems, are to follow. On the 25th of April, the representatives of the Reading Railway were before Commissioner Douglas, asking to be relieved from the five per cent. penalty and one per cent. per month interest on the tax which the Supreme Court has decided is due on dividends declared by the Company during the first seven months of the year 1870. When the tax was due the Company declined to pay it. Proceedings were commenced against them in the Federal Courts, and were resisted strenuously, even to an appeal to the Supreme Court, which was the longest contest they could possibly make. Hence the matter is just now come to a final decision. The Court having decided the Company must pay the tax, they now come forward and apply to have the penalty and the interest remitted. If a private citizen, similarly situated, had made the same application, every sane man knows he would have been snubbed out of sight, and intelligent, right-thinking people would have said, it served him right; he had appealed to the law, and it was but just that he should be judged by the law. And so the Commissioner said to this railway company, that the Court had settled the matter, and he should not assume the power of annulling the action of the Court, nor of relieving them from any consequences which the law attached to the decision. The amount of the penalty that will have to be paid by this Company, and a few minor ones, that are in the same situation, it is stated, will reach $50,000.

An Injurious Policy.

The New York Herald discovers a large and ravenous feline animal in the meal bag of the emigrant head-tax. It will be remembered that the Legislature of New York has passed a bill raising the head-tax on emigrants from $1 50 to $2 50, and this notwithstanding the measure was strenuously opposed by the best papers in the State. The Herald says that the two Houses tried to justify that action on the ground that the Commissioners of Immigration had found the old rate insufficient and had run into debt, whereas their last report shows that there was a cash balance to their credit at the beginning of the present year. The number of immigrants who arrived at the port of New York in 1872, was 294,581, yielding a revenue of $465,000, while the total expense of the Commission was $461,028. The Herald says there is every indication that 350,000 aliens will land at Castle Garden this year. Under the new law there will be collected from immigrants over $800,000 between the 1st of January and the 31st of December, a sum double what is needed to carry out the law for their protection. At the end of the present fiscal year there should be a surplus over and above all legitimate expenses of $350,000. The Herald protests against this state of affairs, and closes its article with the following sensible remarks:

> There does not exist, however, under any circumstances, a necessity for the increase of the head tax, every cent of which comes out of the emigrant's hard earnings. It would be an uncalled for and burdensome imposition on the commerce of this port and certain to be highly detrimental to its interests, and, finally, it would lead to waste and extravagance in the disposition of the emigrants' money, which should be used as a sacred trust for their benefit. It is unquestionably unjust to inflict an unnecessary special tax to the amount of $350,000 on foreigners passing through New York en route to their Western homes. But a small proportion remain in this State or ever become a charge to the Commission. It is clearly the policy of the State to lessen, if not entirely abolish, tax on emigrants instead of increasing their burdens.

A Tribune Washington dispatch of April 25th, says that the Congressional Printing Office is unusually busy in hurrying the work in hand so as to finish it before the operation of the law abolishing the franking privilege. The work now in hand includes among other things 10,000 copies of the Poland Credit Mobilier Report and testimony, and the same number of the report of the Wilson committee; 12,000 copies of Prof. Hayden's Geological Report on Colorado and the Yellowstone; a large number of reports of the Coast Survey, Smithsonian Institution, Darien Survey, etc., in all 100,000 large volumes. The Congressional Printer thinks he will have them completed by the 15th of June. Probably the Congressmen will not be in the city to send them off before the repeal takes effect—July 1st, therefore the larger portion of this vast quantity of matter will find lodgement in second hand book stores and waste paper storehouses. The correspondent adds:

> The talk is already general here that the franking privilege, so far as documents are concerned, will be restored next winter. The full force of the Government Office is now employed, but after the first of July there will be a very material reduction, particularly in the binding room, where hundreds of girls are employed, half of whom will have to be discharged at that time. Congress ordered very little printing to be done for the next fiscal year. The Agricultural Report, for example, has heretofore been printed yearly in editions of 220,000 copies. The number ordered for the next year is 50,000.

Charles S. Brown, of Fishkill Landing, had a quarrel with his wife about the removal of a hen's nest. The wife wanted to remove the nest to a point out of reach of the water. Charles opposed the measure. They had words, and Charles went after his spouse with a knife; but she proved too much for him, wresting the weapon from his grasp. Charles thereupon exclaimed: "If I can't kill you, I can kill myself; one of us must die." So saying he went out. Not long afterwards he was found in the barn, suspended from a beam by a rope around his neck. The Fishkill Journal of April 24th is responsible for the story.

The Winona and St. Peters Railroad Company and the St. Paul and Sioux City Railroad Company both have land grants. The two grants overlap, however, so that about 50,000 acres of valuable land is covered by both grants. A contest has been going on for some time between the two companies about this doubly granted land; and the Commissioner of the General Land Office having decided that the land belonged to the Winona and St. Peters Company, the case was appealed to Secretary Delano, who has just announced his decision sustaining the judgment of the Commissioner.

A San Francisco paper says that an English company will probably put on a new line of steamers between San Francisco and Hongkong, within the next six months. Four large steamships, recently built in England, are ready to start. The first vessel will leave about the first of August—when the green tea crop comes into market.

Injurious Reports Circulating in the East.

The Eastern papers are making the most of the groundless rumors we have been hearing from time to time in regard to a general uprising among the Indians. Almost every daily we receive from the Atlantic States contains more or less of these absurd stories commented upon and exaggerated. It will not be surprising if thousands of persons designing to migrate to this coast be prevented by these falsehoods from doing so. The conduct of the persons who invent such rumors, whatever may be the motive that prompts it, is reprehensible in the extreme, and is calculated greatly to injure this country. We should be very sorry to say anything that would mislead settlers into a delusive security that might result in their being surprised by Indian marauders, but we are so perfectly certain that all these rumors about a meditated outbreak among the various tribes of Indians in Oregon and Washington Territory are utterly false and ridiculous, that we cannot refrain from repeating what we have said to the settlers heretofore, that there is not the slightest occasion for alarm. Outside of the small section of country that may be reached by the Modocs, there is not the shadow of a doubt that the settlers are as safe from Indian depredations to-day as they have been at any time hitherto. Nothing but unmitigated ignorance of Indian character and habits, or unmitigated wickedness, could give rise to the reports that have been put in circulation about the gathering of Indians with hostile purposes, in various parts of the country to the north and east of us. Among all these tribes there has not yet been a single demonstration that would suggest to a person not previously alarmed the idea of a probable uprising of the Indians.

At a banquet given to Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, at Leavenworth, on the 21th ult., he said:

> The masses of the people are now harmoniously united on all questions relating to the vital prosperity of the State. That from assurances received from the press, the Legislature and persons of all parties, he believed he represented the entire people of Kansas. Democrats and Republicans are united in efforts to regenerate the State. The crisis had been hastened by a feeling among the people that their honor had been stained and prosperity retarded by abuses which had grown too bold from success to need concealment. When political vices are arraigned for indecent exposure, the verdict will banish the culprit from the society of decent men. Those who would direct public opinion have now a golden opportunity to redeem the errors of the past. The present is free from all complications; honesty is not hereafter to be unprofitable, merit is not to be an incumbrance, nor subserviency to braggarts and charlatans the only avenue to preferment and distinction.

It is to be hoped that these encouraging words have some meaning in them. There is certainly as much room for reformation in Kansas as anywhere we know of, and we know of several States that would not be in a condition to complain of too thorough a course of purification, if they were subjected to the influence of a regenerating engine of ten thousand horse power. If there was ever a case in which the politico-social situation demanded the heroic plan of treatment, this case is the United States at the present time.

CITY.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.—The picnic excursion given yesterday to Cornelius by the M. E. Sunday schools of Taylor street, East Portland, Hall street and North Portland, was one of the most numerously attended which we have yet seen. At least 800 persons took the train yesterday morning bound for the picnic grounds. Nothing unpleasant transpired to mar the pleasure of the excursionists, and notwithstanding the crowds of little folks not an accident occurred during the day. At four o'clock the train left the grounds and arrived in the city at 6 P. M. Lady participants enjoyed the day hugely and appeared perfectly satisfied with the trip. Great credit is due the Committee of Arrangements, consisting of Messrs E. F. Heroy, J. F. Jones and J. M. Sparrow, for their indefatigable efforts to make the occasion both pleasurable and successful. Judging from substantial results, the efforts of these gentlemen met with a good measure of success.

BURNING FLUE.—The editor, compositors and attaches of the Beacon office at Kalama were thrown into a state of consternation on last Thursday evening by the burning out of a chimney flue. Kalama from center to circumference was thoroughly aroused to a sense of the impending danger. A pathetic appeal was made to the sturdy "gallant firemen," but that brave and self sacrificing band of men failed to respond, as they had no "machine." For a moment considerable alarm was felt, especially by the proprietor of the Kazalbo House and owners of buildings situated contiguous to the Beacon office. But on the populace learning that a flue was simply burning out fears were suspended, peace was restored, quiet once more asserted its supremacy over the inhabitants of that enterprising hamlet, and when our informant left everything was lovely, while the goose dangled at a satisfactory elevation.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship John L. Stephens sailed last evening for San Francisco with the following passengers: General Hawkins & wife, Mrs Gen Canby, A M Armstrong, H C Armstrong, J L Armstrong, wife and daughter; E G Baily, J H Stump, Captain L V Caziarc and wife, Captain Anderson and wife, D Tuthill, P Selling, P H Fosnot, Charles Wray, Master A E Polworth, Major R M Roberts, Captain Farnsworth, G V Smith, J V Roche, Leon R Myers, R Roberts, Henry W Janes, U S A, W H Ferris, Z W Burnham, Merrill Moores, Simeon Smith, W A Potter, E Curtis, Mrs Baily, Mrs Allen, John B Tussler, William Bowen, Mrs B Armstrong, Alex Gulc'en and wife, Thomas Kane, Mrs Kane, Mrs A D Ware, Benjamin Eaton, Mrs M Finning, Mr Plamondon and son, Mrs J Thurston and child, Mrs Mary Marshall and child, H L Hoyt, W, F & Co's messenger, and 30 in steerage.

INSTALLATION.—The following are the officers of Nonpareil Lodge No. 86, I. O. G. T., installed Wednesday evening May 7th. E. W. Ryan, W. C. T.; M. J. Butler, R. S.; Jennie Deland, L. S.; Miranda Wiggs, W. V. T., E. Stearns, Sec'y; H. G. Daniels, F. S.; Emma Hayden, Treasurer; Gustavus Stearns, M.; Anna Stearns, D. M.; Mary Williams, Guard, Andrew Stearns, Sentinel; S. T. W. Stearns, Chap. R. Bird, P. W. C. T.

Representatives to Grand Lodge, E. W. Ryan, W. S. James, S. T. W. Stearns. Alternates, M. E. James, Alice Morgan, G. H. Deland.

Delegates to Oregon State Temperance Union, W. S. James, E. W. Ryan, Alice Morgan, G. H. Deland, M. E. James, S. T. W. Stearns, John Bird.

ANOTHER BUILDING.—Messrs. Burton & Williams are at present engaged in drafting plans for a large brick building which will be constructed the present season by Mr. J. L. Parrish, of Salem. This brick will be built on First street, opposite the First National Bank, on the ground [illegible] by Mr. Parrish. The building will be 65x50 feet, two stories high. The first story is to be divided into two store rooms, each 25x85 feet, and the second story will be used for public halls or subdivided into offices. These plans will soon be completed, and work on the edifice is to be commenced at once.

INTO EFFECT.—The new schedule time of the O. S. N. Company and the N. P. R. R. Company will go into effect about the 19th inst. By the new arrangement between these companies, the [illegible] Fannie Troup will leave here for Kalama early in the morning instead of the afternoon. Passengers who leave here in the morning will connect at Kalama with the cars and pass on without stopping. On arriving at Tenino, they can take the stage for Olympia, thus making the through trip from Portland in one day.

FOR THE GRADERS.—The steamer Fannie Troup carried to Kalama yesterday seven carts which are to be forwarded at once to Tenino and from thence to the several camps of graders. [illegible] hundred Chinamen are engaged along the line of the route. Grading has reached a point [illegible] Olympia, and is being pushed spiritedly [illegible].

TO COME OVER.—The little clipper ship, the Fleetwing, owned by Jay Troup, of Vancouver, will pay a visit to this city on Sunday. The object of the cruise is to engage any boat here for a trial of speed. There is some talk of a race coming off between the Fleetwing and Owl.

SENT UP.—Joe Weirer was arraigned yesterday in the Police Court on a charge of larceny. The [illegible], a hearing of the case, sentenced the [illegible] to the county jail for the space of six weeks.

INSANE PATIENT.—A Mrs. N. J. McCoy, of Linn county, was adjudged insane a few days ago by the [illegible] authorities and sent to the Asylum. She [illegible] here yesterday in charge of the [illegible].

GEN. CANBY'S LIBRARY.

A few days [illegible] we alluded to the fact that Mrs. Gen. Canby had donated the library, collected by her husband during his military career, to the Portland Library Association. The following letter from that estimable lady contains a formal [illegible]tation of the books:

PORTLAND, Oregon, May 5, 1873.

Hon. M. P. Deady, Chairman of the Library Association of Portland, Oregon—Dear Sir: I [illegible] herewith a list of the books comprising the library collected by General Canby during his [illegible] life, and I hereby present them to your Association.

I wish them to be accepted as a token of the [illegible] of my husband and myself for the people of Portland, and of my grateful feeling for the kind sympathy shown by them for me in my recent affliction,

With much respect and regard,
LOUISA H. CANBY.

In consequence of the brief time intervening [illegible] the receipt of Mrs. Canby's letter and her departure for the East, the Directors of the Association did not have an opportunity to formally accept the splendid gift. However the [illegible] donation has been received by the Association, and the books are to be added to the [illegible] in a few days. A committee was appointed the other evening to prepare resolutions [illegible] the formal acceptance of the books. [illegible] resolutions will be submitted to the Directors at their meeting, which is to be held on the first Wednesday in June. After being unanimously adopted by the Association, these resolutions will be forwarded to Mrs. [illegible] at Indianapolis. The library donated contains [illegible] volumes of law and military works, both in the English and French languages, and constitutes a most substantial acquisition to the Portland Library.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

There will be preaching in the German language by the Rev. Mr. Gans to-morrow at 9:30 o'clock in the basement of the Presbyterian Church, corner of Third and Washington streets.

St. Stephen's Chapel, Madison street, near Fourth. The choral service in the afternoon will until further notice be held at 4 o'clock instead of 3. The morning service as usual at 11 o'clock.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The usual monthly children's service will be held to-morrow evening at half past seven o'clock at the First Congregational Church, corner Second and Jefferson streets.

"Opposition is the life of trade," and if you want to buy cheap, take coin with you to the opposition shoe store in Oro Fino building. Cash buyers [illegible] up, and here's your opportunity.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

At a special meeting of the Emmet Guard held in their Armory last evening, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, Death has removed from our midst our esteemed friend and fellow soldier, Captain C. S. Mills, therefore be it

Resolved, That, though bowing in humble submission to the decree of Him who doeth all things well and for the best, we cannot but feel that in the death of Captain Mills we have lost a true friend and companion, the State a tried and gallant soldier, and this community an honored and respected member.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved widow of deceased our heartfelt sympathy in this her great affliction and hour of deepest sorrow.

Resolved, That in testimony of respect to our deceased soldier friend, this Armory be draped in mourning for the period of thirty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this company, and a copy be transmitted to the widow of the deceased.

IN MEMORIAM.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED IN THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT, BY THE MEMBERS OF THE PORTLAND BAR—APPROPRIATE REMARKS ON THE OCCASION BY JUDGE WM. STRONG.

On the opening of the United States Circuit Court, yesterday morning, Judge Strong, Chairman of the Committee appointed on Thursday to draft resolutions, arose and asked leave of the Court to present the following resolutions of the Portland Bar, expressive of their feelings upon the death of Salmon Portland Chase, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Leave being granted the resolutions were read:

Your Committee designated to prepare resolutions upon the death of Chief Justice Chase, beg leave to report as follows:

WHEREAS, In the providence of God, Chief Justice Salmon Portland Chase has been called to his final account; and

WHEREAS, It is becoming that the Bar of the country should testify its appreciation of the important event, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we have heard with unfeigned regret of the sudden and unexpected death of our first Judicial officer, and that we here express our high sense of the able, fearless and diligent [illegible] manner in which he discharged the duties of the great office to which he was called.

Resolved, That, while in the death of Judge Chase the country mourns the death of an eminent citizen, whose genius and labors have made indelible impress upon the nation's history, yet that to the Judicial Department of the Government and to the Bar, his loss is especially afflictive.

Resolved, That we will always cherish with affection the memory of Judge Chase, who was a great lawyer, an upright Judge, and a worthy successor of the illustrious men whose services in the exalted position of Chief Justice illustrated the earlier annals of the Republic.

Resolved, That these resolutions be read in open Court this morning, and leave be asked to spread them upon the Journal, and that the Clerk be requested to forward, under the seal of this Court, a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased.

WM. STRONG, Chairman.
J. N. CHAPMAN, Secretary.

REMARKS BY JUDGE STRONG.

After the reading and adoption of the foregoing resolutions, Mr. Strong proceeded as follows:

May it please the Court: In presenting these resolutions, at the request of the Portland Bar, I cannot do justice to my own feelings or to those of the learned body I represent, without expressing more at large than can well be done in resolutions, the deep grief with which we have received the announcement of the death of Judge Chase. His loss is a national calamity, and will be deeply felt throughout the United States, more especially by those of the legal profession whose pursuits have connected them with the administration of justice in our higher courts, and who on this account are, perhaps, better qualified to realize the difficulty of filling his place. The office of a Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States is, in my opinion, the highest and most honorable position a lawyer can hold.

Judge Chase was a native of New Hampshire, a graduate of Dartmouth College, one of the most distinguished institutions of learning in the United States. He commenced the practice of law in Cincinnati, in the State of Ohio, where, by strict attention to his profession, by his integrity, learning and great talents he rapidly acquired distinction and became the peer among the distinguished lawyers of the west.

In 1849 he was elected to the Senate from Ohio. He was afterwards Governor of that State, and on the inauguration of President Lincoln was made Secretary of the Treasury. In every position that he has occupied he was faithful to his trusts, and was particularly distinguished for his successful management of the financial affairs of the Government during the civil war, the most trying period through which it ever passed.

In 1864 he was appointed and confirmed, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. The time of his appointment was when the very foundations of the Government seemed to be shaken by the political and civil convulsions through which we were then passing, and out of which the country seemed about to emerge with the ancient landmarks of Constitutional liberty and law swept away.

The nation looked with great anxiety to the Supreme Court. On it hung our hopes of a safe restoration of law and order over those great and important States of our Union where war and violence had so long prevailed. The high scholarship, great industry, profound legal learning and incorruptible integrity of Judge Chase gave the country great hopes which so long as he remained upon the bench were not doomed to disappointment. The partisan was swallowed up in the Judge, and no cause of complaint existed that he swerved from the line of his duty in favor of party or friend. He was incorruptible. He passed through the fiery furnace of trial and came out unscathed, not even the smell of smoke upon his garments. His conduct as presiding Judge on the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson—the most important trial that ever took place before a legally organized tribunal—the impeachment before its highest Court of the chief magistrate of a great nation—manifested dignity, impartiality and great learning which commanded universal respect, not only in our own country, but throughout the civilized world.

Personally, Judge Chase appeared to exercise a magnetic influence over those with whom he was brought in contact, more especially did he attach to him all the young men who prepared under him for the profession, they imbibed his principles and became his steadfast friends. He was sincere in his attachment to principle, and he followed his convictions through good or ill report to their legitimate result. His place will not soon be filled.

Examinations for the Treasury.

Candidates for positions in the Treasury Department at Washington are required to submit themselves to a pretty severe ordeal as is demonstrated by the subjoined extract from a late Washington letter.

There are still some thirty-three vacancies in the Treasury Department, to be filled by appointments from the applicants examined about four weeks ago. The standing of each one examined has been made up, and the proper list and certificates from which the choice is to be made have been prepared. Out of those examined each day, the one having the highest standing has been appointed, making eight in all, as the examinations extend through eight days. The remaining applicants have been placed on a list containing over 400 names, in the order of their relative standing, which list will be used by the Secretary in making choice of those to appoint. Several ladies passed excellent examinations. Numbers six and seven in the whole list were ladies, whose average amounted to over eighty seven per cent. Very few ladies will be appointed at this time, because most of the vacancies existing are at desks where the physical labor is too great, or in portions of the building not convenient or pleasant for ladies to occupy. The names of ladies who would otherwise receive appointments will be carried forward to the first vacancies at ladies' desks. There is a great deal of disappointment among those [illegible] failed to pass the examination, and those who, having passed, find, however, that they do not come within the range for appointment. All sorts of influence is engaged, and the officers who have the responsibility of the selection are subjected to an unpleasant and harrassing importunity, which they are obliged to sturdily resist.

A Washington letter of April 26th, has the following, which contains a very acceptable elucidation of the Peace policy:

It is said at the War Department that Gen. Crook is strictly carrying out the peace policy, in accordance with the instructions of the President, through General Sherman, issued two years ago. In these instructions, it is specifically stated that all peaceable Indians on the Reservations, are to be protected by the military from outside interference, while those who refuse to go upon reservations, are not only to be prevented, as far as possible, from committing depredations but are to be summarily punished for misdeeds. The instructions are the same to all commanders in Indian localities, and these are given as an exposition of the peace policy as practiced under the orders of the President.

Alexander H. Stephens has recorded his opinion of General Grant in the following paragraphs:

We know General Grant, and believe him to be no ordinary man. [illegible] rare combination of [illegible] never fails to [illegible] circumstances, [illegible] his cry [illegible] Neither [illegible] corrupt. The [illegible] against his reputation, [illegible] dark deeds of [illegible] Wall street, [illegible] the presence [illegible] his refusal to [illegible] the money "bears" in New York.

FASHIONABLE NOTES.

Ladies' day.

Trianon fans are popular.

The latest style of bonnet is the "Normandy."

An elegant polonaise for visiting and carriage wear has been introduced.

Gauze and grenadine veils are following the lead of the dotted ones of black lace.

Probably the most fashionable garment of the season is the double breasted redingote.

There is an affectation of plainness about some of the most fashionable styles of garments.

An attempt is regularly made to revive black mitts, but in this country it is a decided failure.

Small umbrellas, in soft, silk serge, which may be used for sun or rain, have handsome carved wood or shell handles.

Costumes of black grenadine are enriched with guipure lace and ornamented with bows and sashes of black watered ribbon.

For grenadine suits, there are wide, thin sashes of black armure silk, brocaded in colors and deeply fringed upon the ends, with neckties to match.

Three narrow or graduated flounces are now more fashionable than one deep one, where a polonaise or an upper skirt is used, and these are gathered or side-plaited.

Most dressy parasols are of black-lined with blue, or pink lined with white, with large, deep canopies, and lace of heavy fringe borders, and shell or ivory handles.

Mantles simulate various kinds of hoods, and are ornamented with lace in spirals, rich passementeries, watered ribbon in loops and ends, and massive cords festooned and finished with handsome tassels.

Beautiful costumes of unbleached batiste have broad, embroidered bands down the back and front of the polonaise, the lower edge being finished with linen lace or fringe. The flounced skirt is headed with narrow embroidered bands.

A lovely dressing gown of pure blue cloth, trimmed with two rows of wide white cluny guipure, with narrow black velvet through the center, down the back, one row down the front, round the top and the bottom of the sleeves and across the pockets. The bottom of the skirt is plain. The belt is blue leather, gilt mounted.

New fichus, chemisettes and collarettes abound. The most of them are made in turquoise silk or crepe de chine, edged upon either side with lace or net quilling, but some are shaped like a double breasted vest, and have two rows of large buttons down the front in order to additionally simulate that article of attire.

INDEPENDENT CLUB MEETING.

At an adjourned meeting of the Independent Club, of Portland, on Friday afternoon, the President in the chair, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted. Be it

Resolved, That it becomes our duty as citizens to support only those candidates in the forthcoming election, as well as in all subsequent elections, who will pledge themselves to the people of the city of Portland that retrenchment in all city expenditures shall be their motto, and receive their [illegible] support, [illegible] and where the tax payers of the city of Portland are directly interested. Be it further

Resolved, That it becomes the imperative duty of every official connected with this city government to debar, refuse and obstruct Chinese labor from being used, tolerated or employed on any private or public contract wherein the city of Portland is or may be a party, as now ordered and directed by the city of San Francisco. And, furthermore, the employment of Chinese labor is one of the many causes which has lead to the present stringency of the money market, to the great detriment of the working classes, many of whom have large and helpless families depending on their labor for a support, and in due time will be equally felt among the merchants, mechanics, as well as the entire laboring community, and ruinous to all tax payers and property holders.

The meeting was subsequently and effectually addressed by Mr. P. O. C. Nowell, fully endorsing the principles enunciated by the Club, and recommending a unity of action to the members. The meeting then adjourned, to meet at an early date and determine their future action.

Signed by order of the Club.
JOHN C. CARROLL, Chairman.
M. J. GLEASON, Secretary.

Wall paper of every pattern and hanging of wall paper done by Paul Richter.

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boys' clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

Cough worn victims whose lungs are racked and torn with paroxysms that threaten to choke you, all that you have to do is [illegible] Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. [illegible] by all druggists.

CAUTION.—In our changeable climate, coughs, colds, and diseases of the throat, lungs and chest will always prevail. Cruel consumption will claim its victims. These diseases, if attended to in time, can be arrested and cured. The remedy is Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

The Times says Dr. [illegible] has lost his team of chestnut mare. Should he drive only in harness, it is supposed from bots or pin worms. If the Doctor had used Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, he would, no doubt, have had his mare to day. They are death on worms.

Chapped hands are very common with those who have their hands much in water. A few drops of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment rubbed over the hands two or three times a day will keep them soft and white. Fishermen, sailors and others will do well to remember this.

FRAGRANT SOZODONT hardens and invigorates the gums, purifies and perfumes the breath, cleanses, beautifies and preserves the teeth from youth to old age. Sold by all Druggists.

UPHAM'S FRESH MEAT CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—And all Bronchial and Pulmonary affections, carefully prepared from the formula of Prof. Trousseau of Paris, who used it with such astonishing efficacy in the hospitals of that city, as to attract the attention of the faculty to its wonderful merits.

It is now used here with like great efficacy, giving new life to many hopeless cases, relieving all.

Sold at $1 00 per Bottle or Six for $5 00.

THE ART GALLERY OF PORTLAND
(LATE "OPPOSITION LINE")
Corner First and Taylor streets [illegible]
HAVING JUST RETURNED FROM SAN FRANcisco with a new outfit to replace the one lost in the late fire, I have fitted up a fine suite of rooms, the most convenient in the State of Oregon—only one flight of stairs. The top light is built on the same plan as the leading galleries of San Francisco, together with all the improvements, including Revolving shades to produce fine, soft shades on the pictures. I will introduce the FLOATING PHOTOGRAPHS, something new, and a beautiful style of pictures; also, Porcelain, Enameled Cards, and all the latest improvements of the art.
I would solicit my former patrons, and ladies and gentlemen of Portland and vicinity to call and visit my new rooms and pictures.

The Unbolted Door.

An aged widow sat alone
Beside her fading hearth,
Her silent cottage never heard
The ringing laugh of mirth.
Six children once had sported there—but now the church-yard snow
Fell softly on five little graves that were not long ago

She mourned them all with patient love
But since, her eyes had shed
Far bitterer tears than those which dewed
The faces of the dead.
The child which had been spared to her: her darling of her pride,—
The woeful mother lived to wish that she had also died.

Those little ones beneath the snow,
She well knew where they are;
"Close gathered to the throne of God,
And that was better far?
But when she thought where Katie was, she saw the city's glare,
The painted mask of bitter joy that hood gives sin to wear.

Without, the snow lay thick and white,
No step had fallen there
Within, she sat beside her fire,
Each thought a silent prayer
When suddenly behind her seat, unwonted noise she heard,
As though a hesitating hand the rustic latch had stirred

She turned—and there the wanderer stood
With snow flakes on her hair
A faded woman, wild and worn,
The ghost of something fair
And then upon the mother's breast the withered brow was laid,
"Can God and you forgive me all, for I have sinned," she said

The widow dropped upon her knees,
Before the fading fire,
And thanked the Lord whose love at last
Had granted her desire
The daughter kneeled beside her, too—tears streaming from her eyes,
And prayed, "God, help me to be good to mother, ere she dies."

They did not talk about the sin,
The shame, the bitter woe
They spoke about those little graves
And things of long ago.
And then the daughter raised her eyes and asked in a lower tone,
"Why did you keep your door unbarred, when you were all alone?"

"My child," the widow said, and smiled,
A smile of love and pain,
"I kept it so, lest you should come
And turn away again!
I've waited for you all the while,—a mother's love is true;
Yet it is but the shadowy type of His who died for you"
—N. Y. Observer.

THE TWISTER'S DAUGHTER.

A DOMESTIC STORY, WITH A GOOD MORAL.

Reverend Doctor Hall was sitting in his study one pleasant August afternoon, his thoughts intent upon his Sunday sermon, and his mind withdrawn from earthly cares, when his train of thought was rudely interrupted, and his attention distracted from his theme by the following conversation:

"Oh, Nellie Hall! where are you? you'd ought to have been here—just the stunningest fellow."

Then a sound of running feet, and pretty soon he heard his daughter exclaim:

"Is that you, Maggie?"

"Yes, come down quick; I've got something to tell you."

"I'll be there in a half a jiffy."

Then a door opened and shut, and in a few moments

"What do you think, as I was coming over here, there was just the stunningest fellow right in front of me! Just as I got in front of the new church my music roll slipped, and every paper in it fell out on the sidewalk."

"Gracious! I should have been dumb-confounded."

"And so I was, but it was so ridiculous that I almost died a laughing."

"Well, that fellow, do you think, stopped, turned around, and helped me to pick them up. I was all hunky dory then. He walked as far as here with me; I thanked him of course, etc. etc. 'You know how 'tis yourself.'"

The good doctor scratched his head. Could that be his Nellie, whom he thought so lady-like? He opened the door softly, a little ajar, thinking, no doubt, that he had the right to play the part of a listener to so [illegible] mixed a conversation, and in his own house. Very soon it was continued, this time his daughter commencing the conversation:

"There! how's that for high?"

"Oh, isn't it sweet! how much was it?"

"Only five dollars! cheap enough."

"Yes, indeed; but you said you were going to have pink—that's blue."

"Never mind; it's all the same in Dutch."

The doctor peeked to see what they were talking about—and Miss Nellie was exhibiting her new bonnet to the admiring gaze of her friend.

"It's raging hot here."

"Well, I don't know as I can make it any cooler," said Nellie, looking around. "I 'spose father'd kill me if I opened a door." Her father had requested her the day before to keep the door closed.

"I guess it's time for me to absquatulate," said Maggie, rising

"Don't tear yourself away. Are you going to the lecture to-night?"

"Yes; I had a stunning old time last Tuesday night."

"George Senders said he should go home with you to-night."

"Did he? He'd better learn to spell able first."

"That's so. If there's anything I hate, it's these boys bothering around; they ought to be put into a barrel and fed through a bung-hole until they are old enough to behave."

"I must bid you a fond adieu now; I have thousands of errands to do."

"Well, good-bye."

"O, the dickens, I've left my parasol!"

"Here it is."

"Now good-bye; be sure and come to-night."

"Yes, good-bye."

Then the door closed, and Nellie went off up stairs.

The doctor gently shut the door, with a sly twinkle in his eye. He sat buried in thought for a little time. Now and then a good-humored smile broke over his face, and once he shook with silent laughter. Then again his face lengthened and his brow grew dark, till at last, with a profound shake of the head, he sat down to resume his sermon; but in vain; he could not concentrate his thoughts; not an idea would enter his head; so he sat idly scratching his pen on the paper, till at last, with a gesture of impatience, he pushed back his chair, got up, shook himself, took his hat and went out for a walk. He got as far as the gate, when an idea seemed to strike him. He came back, hung up his hat, and went in search of his wife. For a long time they were closeted together, until time for tea. When tea was ready, Miss Nellie came down equipped for the lecture. After they were fairly seated at the table, Mrs. Hall said:

"My dear sir, will you have some tea?"

"In half a jiffy, madam."

Nellie looked up, but her father took no notice.

"Really, this cake is quite stunning," went on the doctor, as solemn as a judge. Just then his napkin fell to the floor. "Gracious, I'm con-dumbfounded," ejaculated the doctor, getting it a little wrong.

Nellie gazed at her father with perfect amazement.

"My dear, this sauce is staving. Where did you buy it?"

"I made it," said his wife cooly,

"Oh, well, it's all the same in German."

Nellie dropped her knife and fork,

"You must give me some money for the butcher to-morrow," said Mrs. Hall,

"You'll have to spell 'ability' first," growled the doctor savagely.

Then suddenly taking out his handkerchief, he gave his nose a tremendous blow. "There," said he, "how is that for high?"

"I know how it is myself," meekly replied his wife. This capped the climax. The knowledge that her father must have heard the afternoon conversation was too much for Nellie. She burst into tears, and left the room. The sage doctor nodded wisely to his wife, and when she had got out of hearing, exclaimed:

"There, wife, I guess we shall hear no more slang phrases from her."

The next day the good doctor called his daughter into his study, and said to her: "My dear girl, don't you see how very foolish all these phrases are? They mean nothing, but are exceedingly injurious to those who use them. By ever so sparing a use one's speech gets so corrupted that a person often makes use of one of these expressions at times, which afterward he would be sorry to remember. They sound very silly to a listener, and often the usage of them leads to something worse. It is bad enough to hear boys use them sometimes, but a girl is expected to be too refined and ladylike to sully her lips by such expressions. The use of them is simply a bad habit, but 'bad habits, like cuts in the bark of a tree, grow and widen with age,' and if they once get a firm hold, they are hard to get rid of. If we keep company, and are intimate with those who use bad language, we are apt to make use of it ourselves. 'Persons are known by the company they keep.' When you see a person using these phrases, you may be sure that such a person knows not what is called 'good society.'

"Such expressions as 'by gorry' or 'by darn' are not only foolish but wicked. For does not the Scriptures say, 'Swear not at all, neither by heaven nor by earth, but let your communication be yea, yea, and nay, nay, for whatsoever is more than these comes of evil.' There, my daughter," said the doctor, "we have made quite a sermon of it—so let us hear no more slang phrases."

Queer People.

THE STORIES THAT WITTY WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS TELL—BEAUTIFUL DIAMONDS AND POKER PLAYING.

I strolled into one of the offices on Newspaper row the other evening, says a writer to the Philadelphia Star, where I found gathered a number of those shrewdest and brightest of all the journalistic profession—Washington correspondents. I was rather late, and what little news there was had been sent off, and the boys, as they are called, were smoking and telling stories. It was as good as a play to listen to these men, and I regret I can not remember enough to give you at least a half a column of their wit. I do remember, however, some little gossip about our public men, which I know will be interesting.

One of the stories goes in the last Congress there was a Democratic member named Bright, from away down in the tobacco growing part of Virginia, who was noted for his extreme filthiness. He never wore a white shirt, and a paper collar on his woolen shirt would last him for weeks. But the worst of him was that he would never use a pocket-handkerchief. He sat between Generals Young and Du Bose, two very elegant and high-toned Georgia members, who tried many ways to avoid his nasal peccadilloes, but in vain.

A SUPPLY OF HANDKERCHIEFS.

At last they hit upon a plan they thought would do away with the nuisance. They purchased a dozen very large white handkerchiefs, did them up in paper, addressed the to him, and laid them on his desk. Both Young and Du Bose were in their seats, anxious to see how their friend would receive their present. When he came in he picked up the package, tore it open, and began examining the handkerchief. Soon he turned to Young and Du Bose and said: "Look here, did you fellows git any of these things?" They replied that they had; that they were a part of the perquisites of the members, and that all the members had received them that morning.

"Well," says the Virginian, "what are the darned things for?" They explained and were in high glee for a little while, but imagine their disgust when, after Bright had examined each piece of muslin, he said: "Oh, yes! them is just like what my wife uses, sometimes," and as he said it he took a large official envelope, put in the handkerchiefs, put on his wife's address, franked it, and threw it into the mail bag.

The story reminded one of the correspondents of a somewhat similar one. In the Forty-first Congress there was a Senator from one of the far Western States who had the habit of using his napkin instead of his handkerchief at the dinner-table. He was a clever man, and when he came to board at one of our most fashionable hotels he was invited to take a seat at a table where sat a Judge of the Supreme Court and his family. There was also, at the same table, another prominent Senator and a very fastidious journalist and his family.

TAKING A HINT.

The Western Senator accepted the offer, and on the very first day his abominable habit was noticed. Days and days passed by, every effort being used in the way of hint and innuendo to call his attention to his gross vulgarity, but all to no use. The question was how to stop him without giving offense. At last one of the party hit on a plan which was successful. He wrote an anonymous note, which he sent him. The Senator got it, and it had its effect, for never afterward was he guilty of his former breech of etiquette.

This reminded another correspondent of a member from Tennessee in the last House who was guilty of the same offense as the Western Senator. None of the regular boarders at the Ebbit House could be induced to sit at the same table with him. The same person told of the wife of a very prominent Senator who gave many brilliant receptions last winter, and who always asked the society reporter of the newspapers to speak of her diamonds. Her diamonds were nothing but the Alaska diamonds bought in a dollar jewelry-store. The way the fact came out was that the many allusions to Mrs. Senator So-and-so's beautiful diamonds led the dollar-jewelry man to use it as an advertisement with his other customers.

It was told of another Senator's wife that she is one of the best poker and Boston players in the country. During the session she entertains lavishly, and scarcely a night passes that she doesn't have a card party at her house. Of course she always plays, and they say she never loses. A certain foreign legationist is said to have lost several thousand dollars at her house in one night.

GEO. E. COLE, P. M.

A TRUE HERO.—An exchange has this story of a circumstance that took place only two weeks since, on the Delaware, during the extremely high water:

Below the Narrows, a young man named David Hess, with a little boy, was riding on a small raft near shore, when it was washed into the angry current and wrecked. Hess grasped a log, but seeing his little companion washed away down the stream, he left the log and swam after the boy. He succeeded in overtaking and seizing him, but the current was so swift that he could not get to shore. Some women standing on the bank gave the alarm, and a number of men working near by rushed to the rescue. There was no means of getting at the brave young man struggling in the water, holding the child above the surface, and it was feared they must both perish. The mother of the child was among those on the bank, and she could with difficulty be prevented from jumping in the water after him. The struggle continued for half a mile, when Hess, almost exhausted, struck an eddy, in which he was enabled to swim to the shore. He restored the child to its mother among general rejoicing

The San Francisco Chronicle of May 4th, notices the departure of diamond Harpending, and gives the following dubious send-off.

Ashbury Harpending has turned a cold shoulder upon San Francisco and gone to reside in St. Louis. His household furniture was sold out a few days ago, and his family left on the overland train. Mr. Harpending was to meet them somewhere along the road. He would have come to this city, but for the many painful recollections of diamond swindles and salted placer mines which would inevitably arise. The general impression is that Mr. Harpending will be able to live in good style upon the interest of what he lost in the diamond swindle. Regards to Arnold, Mr. Harpending. Hail and farewell!

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY EVENING, May 9, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 117½

Portland Legal Tender rates, 86 buying; 87 selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 10d@12s club 12s 2d.

The condition of the local money market to-day calls for little comment, its chief characteristics being unaltered. The demand continues quite active, but there seems to be less pressure for the negotiation of outside paper, and hence more room for operation by those desiring loans on regular terms. The apparently limited amount of coin in circulation remains a fact which is not accounted for to the satisfaction of the business public, as many men who were thought to be sagacious and foresighted, long ago prophesied that with the full opening of spring and the end of the demand for funds to purchase wheat, a large amount would flow back into the regular channels of business and dispel the stringency so long prevailing. But other matters aside, we do not really believe that the people of Oregon have greater cause to complain of "hard times" than those of a very great portion of the country in general. A gentleman who is a close observer and a shrewd business man, and who has just returned to this city from an extended tour leading to the several large money centers of the Eastern States, informs us that the pressure is less apparent in its effects on business here in Portland than in any other place he has visited, excepting Chicago. If this be true, there is hardly ground for the whole of the complaint that is now being made, particularly against Oregon, or reason for any general feeling of discouragement among our business men. It is true that we frequently hear of minor establishments failing or being forced into bankruptcy, and occasionally one of more importance succumbs to the protracted pressure, but these things are occurring in other places equally as often, and have occurred here in years gone by. Hence, we beg to put in a disclaimer to the announcement that we stand, as a community, anywhere near the verge of financial disaster.

But as long as we place our whole dependence on outsiders for much that we might do for ourselves, there is but little reason to hope that our prosperity will be greatly accelerated. We would be glad to see the people of Oregon grow rich, but when we look at the limited amount of our exports compared with what they might be, or with what we go away from home to buy, we acknowledge that our confidence in the near realization of this desire if much shocked.

Woolen Goods.

The local trade in Woolen goods, both of home make and imported, during the past season, has hardly come up to the expectations of dealers, though it has perhaps kept pace with most other branches of business, and could not expect to escape experiencing the general result from a close money market. Some advances were made shortly after the great Boston fire, and this was pretty well maintained. The Salem mills have been constantly turning out goods of this description, the excellence of which has become too well known all over this coast to need unusual mention here. Their goods are always in demand, but to correspond with the times we learn that they have reduced the prices of their various manufactures from 10 to 20 per cent. At these reduced rates there is no reason why the Salem mills products should not come into much more general use than at present. If all of our interior merchants would use their efforts to introduce these and all other home manufactures, we can readily see what pecuniary advantages would accrue to the State at large. It takes no sagacious political economist to perceive the truth of the somewhat trite expression that "the way to keep money in the country is to patronize home institutions."

Notice.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS OF the

OREGON IRON COMPANY

For the election of Directors, will be held at the principal office in Oswego on THURSDAY, the 15th day of May, 1873, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Attention is called to the following resolution of the Board of Directors of said Company, adopted at a meeting of said Board, held at the city of Portland on the 23d day of April, 1873:

Resolved. That a meeting of the stockholders of this corporation be, and hereby is, called for the purpose of diminishing the capital stock and the number of the shares, or the value of the same, if deemed advisable; that such meeting be held at the time and place of, and immediately after the annual meeting for the election of Directors, which is to be held at Oswego on the 15th day of May, 1873; and the publication of this resolution for the period of not less than fifteen days prior to said 15th day of May, in one or more of the daily papers of the city of Portland, shall be sufficient notice of such meeting. Attest: P. C. SCHUYLER, Secretary.

To Sufferers:

THE ABOVE ESTABLISHMENT HAS BEEN opened for the treatment of all Chronic and Private Diseases, of males as well as females, where all who are suffering from any of those dreadful ailments can find relief.

Young men having weakened and injured their constitutions by secret habits, need have no fear in calling and consulting me, as all communications are strictly confidential, and sure of a permanent cure where treatment is followed.

Special attention given to the treatment of stricture, and to all who are suffering from such, I can warrant a cure.

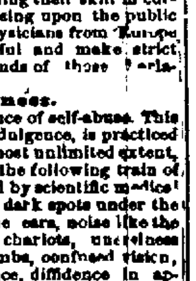
Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Piles, Dropsy, Cancers, and all other ailments successfully treated.

To Ladies who are dragging out a life of misery, on account of debility, sterility, menstruation, and many other diseases peculiar to the sex, can find relief by calling.

The celebrated FEMALE REGULATOR PILLS sent free by mail to any address on receipt of $5 00 per box. Certain and safe in all cases.

Office consultation free of charge. All communications strictly confidential. Office hours, 11 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M. DR. C. G. GLASS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco; Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated [illegible] successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, and see that they are cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those [illegible].

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he can be cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco [illegible].

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of those fearful maladies, should not forget the [illegible] impossibility [illegible] relief. DOCTOR GIBBON [illegible], and will give to patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines [illegible] forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By enclosing Ten Dollars coin, in a registered letter through the Post Office, or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and because too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, news [illegible], intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat the diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

[illegible] will please inform DR. GIBBON that they saw [illegible] in the Daily Oregonian. jy644pt
